

Single Release:

The Orange Lights

“A Few Good Days”

Released On: Blackbird Records

Date: 25th August 2008

The Orange Lights unleash a song for summer 2008 with the release of their new single, ‘A Few Good Days’ through Blackbird Records on 25th August, taken from the forthcoming debut album ‘Life Is Still Beautiful’, released on 15th September.

The Orange Lights was created by Paul Tucker, the 11-million selling songwriter who created the Lighthouse Family. Tucker started the songwriting process for The Orange Lights in 2006, and found Spiritualized touring guitarist Jason Hart. The pair became close confidants, sharing an innate passion for similar music, beliefs and ambitions. Hart soon became the band’s frontman and song-writing partner. Tucker now steps out of the project to work on his next creation, and will pen songs for some of the world’s biggest artists.

At the end of 2007, The Orange Lights signed a pioneering deal with specialist music investment company Ingenious Media, and decided to bring in Cenzo Townsend (Snow Patrol, Kaiser Chiefs, Bloc Party), to bring you their debut album ‘Life Is Still Beautiful’.

To precede its release, the band will release their new single, ‘A Few Good Days’, a track which will bring sunshine to this otherwise grey summer. The track is a spellbinding and heady song that calls for a brighter, more settled future. The band’s widescreen sound launches, and spirals skyward with huge guitars and keyboards to create a dark, brooding atmosphere.

The lead track will be backed by four alternate versions, including two exclusive remixes by the world renowned DJ and producer, Tom Middleton. In true Middleton style he creates a heady and infectious Club Mix, and provides a soundtrack for Ibiza in the Deep mix.
